I would do it again in a heartbeat...

Teresa Rick is a 911 dispatch supervisor for Pendleton County. She is proud of her work, but admits it is hard to leave her job back at the office. "I will be at a school game for one of my children and hear the police or ambulance run past and wonder where they are going. When your job deals with saving people, how can you just turn that off?" Ms. Rick got to her current position by starting out like any other high school student. She graduated and enrolled at a four-year university, but found that the environment didn't fit her needs. "I found myself in classes that were too large. I needed something more intimate where I felt it was okay to walk up and talk to a professor." After three semesters, she left her first college experience and transferred straight to Gateway Community and Technical College to enroll in the medical assisting program and graduated with a technical diploma.

After several years of working in other jobs Teresa wanted to set an example for her three children by showing the ability and opportunities for going to college. "I wanted them to know that

Relay For Life helps mark a world with more birthdays

Walkers will go around the clock on Friday, June 20 in the battle against cancer when the American Cancer Society Relay For Life of Pendleton County gets underway. When teams gather at the Pendleton County Fairgrounds at 7 p.m. participants will be helping the Society raise funds for cancer research and outreach programs.

During Relay for Life events, participants camp out overnight at a local school, park, or fairground, and take turns walking or running around a track or path. Each team is asked to have a representative on the track at all times during the event. Because cancer never sleeps, Relay events take place overnight, lasting 12 hours in length.

"People should come to Relay for Life to be a part of something that will one day change the world," says Event Chair Lauren Jones. "The money raised for the American Cancer Society through Relay for Life will be the money that will fund the research that finds the cure for cancer and put an end to this disease that has touched so many people's lives." Jones is most excited about seeing Falmouth coming together Relay night as a community to support the fight against cancer, while also having a good time with others who have been touched by cancer. "I know one day when we have found the cure to cancer, I will feel blessed to have been a part of the fight," Jones says.

Throughout the night, the Pendleton County Relay For Life will host different events for people of all ages. Some of the activities held during the Relay For Life will be a live auction, scavenger hunt, cake walk and many themed laps. A full schedule of events can be found the night of the event, highlighting these events and others along with the times they will be occurring.

One of the most touching moments during a Relay For Life event is the Luminaria Ceremony which takes place after sundown, honoring the community's cancer survivors and remembering those lost to the disease. Participants will circle a track that is surrounded with glowing luminaries that bears the name of someone who has battled cancer. Luminaries may be purchased for $5 by calling Kim Polley at 859-445-9949 or can also be purchased event night.

Funds raised at Relay For Life of Pendleton County help the American Cancer Society get even closer to bringing an end to cancer as we know it. To learn more about Relay For Life, please call 1-800-227-2345 or visit RelayForLife.org.

The American Cancer Society is a global grassroots force of more than three million volunteers saving lives and fighting for every birthday threatened by every cancer in every community. As the largest voluntary health one can do it if you work at it." Recognizing a strong desire for studying juveniles within the study of criminal justice, she went back to Gateway and enrolled in the criminal justice program in 2011 where she met Amy Carrino, chair of the Protective and Professional Services Division of Gateway. Ms. Carrino found an excellent student in Teresa. "She is the type of student that you want a thousand of: kind, smart, hardworking, and would settle for nothing less than an A." Rick and Carrino made a perfect match; one wanted faculty who took interest in her and the other wanted a student who had a passion for learning.

A few semesters later after taking courses online and a couple in person, Teresa graduated with her associate of applied science in criminal justice; and she made the dean's list several times. She is grateful for what she has learned in the program and proud that she was able to show this experience to her children (now ranging in ages from 7 through 15). The great lessons she has taught her children don't stop with her degree from Gateway. Rick is currently completing certificate programs offered through the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council. These intense certificates are recognized across Kentucky in various subject matters. She is set to complete all possible certificates in the near future. When and if the right opportunity presents itself, she would even be interested in transferring her Gateway credits and finishing a bachelor's degree in criminal justice.

When asked to look back at the path she took to earning her degree and evaluate if she would do it again, her answer is simple, "I would do it again in a heartbeat!"

Bicycle Rodeo makes learning fun for local children

Twenty-three children from the Pendleton County Summer Recreation Program enjoyed the 13th Bicycle Rodeo, held by the Falmouth Police Department, on Thursday, June 12, in Falmouth. This event was coordinated by Falmouth Police Sgt. Aaron Arnsperger and Falmouth Police Officer Michael Coppage and assisted by Falmouth Police Chief Mark Posey, Falmouth Police Officer Greg Spaulding, Falmouth VIP member David Priest and Pendleton County Sheriff Craig Peoples. The children learned about proper protective gear, hand signals, and safety techniques when out riding their bikes. They also took a police-escorted ride through the streets of town and later stopped at Howard's Place for free ice cream. Two bicycles were given away before the ride began. Josh Ashcraft was the winner of the boy's bike while Olivia Peed was the winner of the girl's bike. Olivia graciously gave hers to best friend Gennasis Herald because she already owned one. The bicycles were donated by Magistrate Elect Rick Mineer and Falmouth Mayor Mark Hart. Sgt. Arnsperger and Officer Coppage agreed it was great day for the children. "We both have kids and wanted this to be a special time for everyone involved," commented Sgt. Arnsperger. "We had the opportunity to work with the children and give them some important bicycling safety tips. This is something we always enjoy and look forward to doing." Pendleton County Summer Recreation and the Falmouth Police Department would like to thank everyone who made this day possible. OPINION

The basket has a hole in it

This article on the complex issue of poverty in our nation will not be satisfying to those who have overcome monumental obstacles in achieving a lifestyle of abundance. Neither will the wealthy find comfort in what is said. Nor will those who think our government should take care of the poor like what is said. As a matter of fact, I can think of no one who will applaud. But, if it helps us to think more clearly about the issues involved, then the pain of writing this will be worthwhile, particularly where children are involved.

I began my teaching career in Breathitt County and I taught language arts to the upper grades in a newly opened consolidated school. I was also basketball coach for the school and began in earnest to build a team from scratch. I had some fairly good players but needed a big boy to play center. And, there was one in my home room.

Well coordinated, he appeared to be our ticket for a county championship. But he had never played basketball. No problem. I'll teach him. So, I took him to the gym, cleared one end of it for my protégé and explained that I wanted him to shoot baskets, bouncing the ball off the backboard into the basket. I left him alone to practice, ran an errand, and returned to the gym to find him sitting on the basketball. "What happened?" I queried.

"Hit don't make no sense," he said. "The basket's got a hole in hit."

I explained to him that he could make a good player, perhaps play for Breathitt County High School, then maybe go to college or get a good job, get married, buy a house and make something out of himself. The words fell on deaf ears as he lolled out his tongue and said, "I'm quittin' school when I get sixteen."

"How are you going to make a living?" I asked.

"Drawin'." He responded as he turned and dragged his feet in a shuffle down the hallway.

My middle class value system had gotten into a fistfight with poverty and poverty had scored a knockout!

My wife, Janice, also worked in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, supervising a nutrition program for U of K, and she tells of the frustration in helping impoverished families learn and implement better nutrition. They tend to buy expensive foods with less nutritional value with their food stamps. Their kitchens are often filthy and they lie with their dogs on their sofas and smoke cigarettes.

One woman welcomed a nutritional paraprofessional into her home and said, "Hon'y, you go right on into the kitchen and fix the meal; I've gotta watch my program." This was the same household that the mother chewed tobacco until it oozed around the corner of her mouth. She would not raise a garden. I have personally watched her children walk on ice in the creek, barefooted. One of her sons would bring buddies to the house to have sex with his sister for a couple of bucks...A sister who was mentally challenged.

Poverty won again.

Paul Prather in an excellent article on poverty tells of his Father, also a minister, who sponsored a drive to give poor children bicycles at Christmas until the church found that the same children who received bicycles the previous Christmas were returning the following Christmas for another one. Their caregivers were selling their bicycles.

And when we see the mixed results from President Johnson's War on Poverty and how our government seemingly enacts these programs in order to garner votes at election time, we wonder how much long-range good these welfare programs accomplish. There are those who claim that governmental programs tend to institutionalize poverty rather than alleviate it.

Prather says that poverty comes from multiple causes such as physical disability, mental illness, ignorance, family problems, drug addiction, and poor health care to name just a few, many of them overlapping. I agree that attacking poverty is like hitting a tar baby that leaves us enervated and discouraged. But all is not despair concerning poverty.

I think of many persons who have overcome poverty and made highly successful lives for themselves and their families. Like a class mate of mine who came out of the head of Millers Branch and wore gum boots to Elkatawa Grade School, but, who went on to a highly successful life. Like the number of persons who moved to northern Kentucky and Ohio and became solid, productive citizens, belying the problems of their youth. Like the many families who used welfare for what it was intended and went on to do well for themselves and their families. Like the several housewives I knew in Breathitt County who used the WIC program to better their lives. Like the young man in Pendleton County who overcame an alcoholic father who beat him and his mother over her unfaithfulness, and he had fled to an abandoned car in which to sleep; rescued by faculty and staff at PCHS who took an interest in him.

Jesus said that we will always have the poor among us, then turns around and feeds the multitude who, by inference, were poor. And throughout the Gospels, we find Jesus serving the poor, not the rulers, not the high priests, not the governors of Rome, not the fat cats of Wall Street. The sick, the lame, the blind, the hungry: These were his clientele!

I am for the government helping the poor...with a measure of restraint. I am for the churches helping the poor even though the need seems insurmountable. I am for individuals helping the less fortunate...in so doing we might redeem our souls from obsessing with money and cars and possessions. We can do better!

Reader expresses opinion over weekly column

Dear Editor,

The real wealth of a nation is in its human resources. If this is not cultivated in a meaningful way, we are doomed to the dustbin of history. It's clear Mr. Sullivan comes at this topic from a place of compassion, but there do exist alternatives to the more neo-nazi tactics he has suggested. To help solve the problem of the lumpen-proletariat, let's change causes and conditions of their plight. In his article, Sullivan makes a contrast between the state of our culture now and that during the last great depression. I highly doubt that human nature has changed so drastically in such a short timespan. Culture is a product of socioeconomic condition, so rather, let us contrast the economic ideologies of our ruling classes then and now. Since the 1970s, in favor of military Keynesianism, the U.S. has abandoned the economic ideas that propelled it to modernity and greatness. This is the American School of Economics. For the sake of brevity, I will allow the interested reader to do his/her own research into the specifics of this subject. Let it be known, though, that our greatest leaders, on whose ebbing tide we are still beneficiaries, were all devoted adherents. Our current ruling class (or "sixth party system") is gripped and misguided by the psychoses of free-trade, austerity, and undeserved American exceptionalism.

These are not traditional values of this nation and are leading us in a mad race to the bottom. From the land of Henry Clay, let us take the lead in reintroducing the American School with a real program of economic recovery. Instead of blaming and punishing the victims of our incompetent ruling class's policies, consider the following solutions to create at least 50 million prevailing wage jobs and a rising standard of living for all:

1. A one percent Wall St. sales tax on the over five dollar quadrillion turned over annually. You can do the math, and this should be split between the federal government and the states, immediately curbing speculation and putting all books in the black (affording free education, healthcare, etc.)

2. Nationalize the Federal Reserve and have it loan out century bonds at zero percent interest to cities and states for state-of-the art infrastructure projects.

3. Re-institute a strong protective tariff on imports to protect American manufacturing.

4. Parity agriculture to strengthen the family farm.

For more concrete solutions based on our real heritage check out taxwallstreet-party.org.

Sincerely,
Joshua Devaney

Local youth group experiences a chance to give back

Dear, Editor,

On Saturday, May 3, 2014 around 9 a.m., the Harvest Community Church Youth Group (Fully Charged) met at the Creekside Pavilion on Hwy. 330 to start our journey to clean up garbage on Fishing Creek Road to raise money for our mission trip in July of 2014.

The team leader passed out the vests and gloves, and then divided into four teams. The four teams were made up of seven adults and 11 kids. Two teams started at the end of 22 and the other two started at the 330 side.

We found two tires and a chicken coop. We picked up 20 bags of aluminum cans, plastic bottles, paper and some hand warmers from the hunters. The kids found a dead snake and a opossum in the road.

The road has been well maintained. The kids has a great time and they now have a different outlook on throwing trash out the car windows. We would like to take the time to thank you for this great community service project to help us out.

Sincerely,
Angela Schack

Back Yonder

By Marvin Sullivan

“Doldrums”

everything worked with “ON” and “OFF.”

You will have to start using more “four” letter words: What? When? Where?

I could go on and on, but I do not want readers to think I am complaining or being negative. I must revert back to memory.

I would like to be a child again for a spell. I would like to run as fast as I could barefooted, stomp through mud puddles and not worry about getting dirty, swing from a grape vine and play Tarzan, hide behind a bush in a game of hide and seek, and eat all the chocolate cake and ice cream I wanted and not worry about sugar, calories, and cholesterol.

We as young boys would invent games. On our way to get the cows for milking we would climb young trees as far up as we could and ride them to the ground as they bent over; just a common game, but care free. I would like to climb a young tree and ride it to the ground as Robert Frost quoted in his poem Birches:

“I’d like to get away from earth a while and then come back to it again and begin over.....I’d like to go by climbing a Birch tree, and climb black branches up to a snow-white trunk toward Heaven, till the tree could bear no more, but dipped it’s top and set me down again.....one could do worse than be a swinger of Birches.”

Yes “life” is a gift to you. The way you live your life is your gift to those who come after. Make it a fantastic one!

Marvin’s new book Back Yonder is published and available for purchase. Call 859-654-6065 for your copy.

EAST PENDLETON WATER DISTRICT
Water Quality Report for year 2013

Water - Essential for Life

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

We buy our water wholesale from the City of Falmouth and from the Bracken Co. Water District which buys their water from the City of Augusta's water treatment plant. Falmouth is a surface water treatment facility that treats water from the Main Licking river. Augusta's source is ground water from wells. Susceptibility to contaminants in both water source's is moderate. The area around the Licking river and the wells is mostly residential but also contains some agricultural, recreational, and light industry activities. As water travels over the surface of the land and through the ground it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of human and animal activities. Contaminants that may be present in this source water include microbial contaminants, inorganic contaminants, pesticides and herbicides, organic chemical contaminants, and radioactive contaminants, a complete water source assessment can be obtained or reviewed at East Pendleton Water District, 601 Woodson Road, Falmouth, KY 41040. (859-654-2100)

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.

Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/l). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.

Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.

Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Information About Lead:

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Your local public water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

Falmouth received a notice of violation for exceeding the MCL in reference to the Haloacetic acids parameter during the 3rd quarter of 2013 for having a quarter average of 65 and a annual running average of 63 for Haloacetic acids is 0.60 mg/l. In an effort to resolve this issue numerous operational procedures are being attempted including, but not limited to , reducing disinfection to the lowest level possible while out compromising health and safety, increasing the addition of activated carbon,adjust the tank levels, more frequent flushing to solve the problem. Haloacetic acids-Some people who drink water containing Haloacetic acids in excess of the MCL over many years may have a increased risk of getting cancer.

Our water system violated one or more drinking water standards over the past year. Even though these were not emergencies, as our customers, you have a right to know what happened and what we did to correct these situations.

We are required to monitor your drinking water for specific contaminants on a regular basis. Results of regular monitoring are an indicator of whether or not our drinking water meets health standards. During 1/1/2011-12/31/2013 we did not monitor or test for Asbestos and therefore cannot be sure of the quality of our drinking water during that time.

There is nothing you need to do at this time. You do not need to use an alternative (e.g., bottled) water supply.

The table below lists the contaminants we did not properly test for during the last year, how often we are supposed to sample for Asbestos and how many samples we are supposed to take, how many samples we took, when samples should have been taken, and the date on which follow-up samples were (or will be) taken.

contaminant	required sampling frequency	number of samples taken	samples should have been	when samples were or will be taken
1094 Asbestos	once every 9 years	0	0	waiver

What happened? Who is at risk? What is being done?

Asbestos. We are not required to test for Asbestos. We received a waiver from DOW stating this. There is no one at risk from this violation.

Please share this information with all the other people who drink this water, especially those who may not have received this notice directly (for example, people in apartments, nursing homes, schools, and businesses). You can do this by posting this notice in a public place or distributing copies by hand or mail.

THE NATE JONES REPORT

By Jack Wright

Pendleton County's hometown Major League Baseball star, Nathan Andrew "Nate" Jones, is in his third season as a relief pitcher with the Chicago White Sox. Below are brief details of his in-game activities for the week ending June 15, 2014.

Jones has been on the White Sox disabled list (DL) since April 4 due to a herniated disc in his lower spine area that required microdiscectomy surgery on May 5. After several weeks of physical rehabilitation therapy, the past week proved to be a very positive one.

On Monday, June 9th, Jones was allowed to begin soft tossing a baseball at a 60-foot distance. After that exercise resulted in positive results, the next day he was allowed to soft toss at a 75-foot distance. Sunday, June 15, he was long tossing at a 120-foot distance. All of this is encouraging news in the long comeback trail Jones faces in an attempt to resume his role as an active member on the White Sox Major League roster.

Also, after this week's Wednesday afternoon game at home versus the San Francisco Giants, the Sox begin an 11-game road trip. For the first time since Jones was placed on the DL, he shall be traveling with the team, and shall continue to rehab and train on the road.

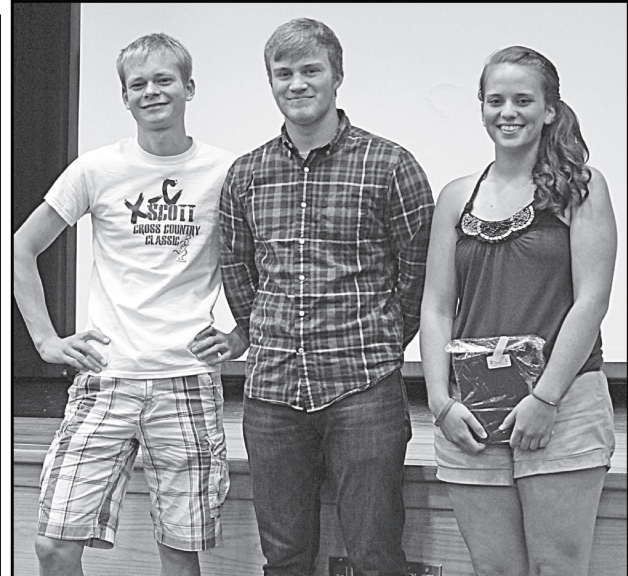

Everyone continues to believe Jones shall be fully recuperated and ready to resume active duty with the White Sox following the mid-July Major League All Star Game.

Jones' stats for the season: 2 games; 0.0 innings pitched; 5 batters faced; 29 pitches (13 strikes); 2 hits; 3 walks; 4 runs (earned); 1 blown save.

Sox season record: 33 wins; 37 losses; last place in the American League Central Division; five-and-a-half games behind the division leading Detroit Tigers.

BERLIN BAPTIST

We invite all to come and worship with our family of believers. Sunday services begin with Sunday school at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11 a.m., and Sunday night services are held at 7 p.m., message by Bro. Dan Black.

This past Sunday was a wonderful time in the Lord at Berlin Baptist Church. We were blessed with a sermon from Bro. Fred Workman. Bro. Fred's message was taken from Ephesians 2:1-10 titled, "Gods unending love, mercy and grace."

CHAPEL OF PRAISE

The congregation celebrated Pentecost Sunday with a wonderful selection of hymns and choruses that spoke of the Holy Spirit's ministry and power.

Pastor Kevin preached from Acts 19 about 12 men that were deficient in their understanding of the Holy Spirit. They like so many others failed to see and understand that we are living in the Age of the Spirit.

The Lord Jesus wants all of His people filled with the power from on high to carry out the work that has been assigned to the church.

We were delighted with our visitors this week: Mary McDowell, Susan McDowell, Linda Justice, Christina Hawon, Jay Colmire and Ruthann, Michael and Laura Bennett, Angie Smith, Tess Smith, Melissa Bush and David and Marissa Beckelhymer.

Prayer concerns this week: Barb Singer, Gary and Alice Holmes, Chipper McGee, Tammy Stewart, Richard Clos, Butch Florence, Bertie Sandy and Joyce Brock.

Remember Jesus loves you!

FALMOUTH BAPTIST

Sunday was graduate recognition service. Congratulations to high school graduates Katie Gaskins, Joseph Jenkins and Sarah Turner and college graduate Rachael Adams. The message for all of us that morning came from I Peter 4. Live not for earthly desires, but seek the will of God. Pursue God, seek His face and be in the world. Strive for excellence, not perfection. Be clear minded and self controlled. Love each other deeply!

These 30 Days have been fabulous. We've heard some incredible messages. Come join us each evening during June at 7 p.m., and hear what God has laid on Bro. Cohen's heart.

Della Catherine Hammons was born to Shane and Ashley Salerno Hammons last week. Congratulations to them, big brother Charlie and grandparents, Larry and Jean Hammons and Ed and Beverly Salerno.

VBS will be held each Sunday evening from 6-8 p.m., at the fairgrounds. All ages are welcome to join us!

FALMOUTH CHRISTIAN

"Day of Pentecost" is the seventh Sunday after Easter.

"When the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place.

Suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind and it filled all the house where they were sitting.

Then appeared unto them a cloven tongues like as of fire, it sat upon each of them.

They were filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

There were dwelling at Jerusalem Jew, devout men, out of every nation under heaven.

Now when this was heard abroad, the multitude came together and were confounded, because every man heard them speak in his own language.

They were all amazed and marveled, saying one to another, are not all these which speak Galilaens?

How hear we every man in his own tongue, wherein they were born? They were in doubt, saying one to another, what does this mean?

It shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved.

Then they that gladly received His word were baptized; the same there were added unto them about three thousand souls."

The day of Pentecost was the beginning of church.

FALMOUTH WESLEYAN

Pastor Nick shared from I Peter 2:7-12. The differences between Christians and non-believers are more than the bad stuff we no longer do, or the good things we might do. For the non-believer can also boast of these things.

The difference is our identity in Christ. We are redeemed; bought with a price and chosen to be holy. We have been reconciled to God which means we now have a relationship with Him through Jesus. We have also been made righteous. It is Christ' righteousness in us that enables us to live such godly lives that even those who speak against us, may come to glorify God. Others may live "good" lives, but the Christian lives in Christ.

The man's quartet "Proclaim" from Kentucky Mountain Bible College will be with us at 6 p.m., June 22. Join us every Sunday night at 6 p.m., and Sunday mornings at 11 a.m.

HARVEST COMMUNITY

Bro. Donnie's morning message was taken from Galatians 6:7-10 titled, "You Reap What You Sow." Every action has results. If you plant to please your own desires, you'll reap a crop of sorrow and evil. If you plant to please God, you'll reap joy and everlasting life. What kind of seeds are you sowing?

We pray that all fathers had a very special Father's Day. We look forward to our fifth Sunday day of fellowship. We will have our Bible study and worship service at church, immediately following with a pot luck at the Creekside Pavilion on Highway 330.

Prayer concerns: Gary and Alice Holmes, Louise Price, Juanita King, Pat Ray, Zelma King, Henry Bertram, Janice Wiggins, Pam Bruin, Isabella O'Hara, Danielle Klaber, Vickie Cooper and the family of William Matthews.

Come be our guest at 111 East Shelby Street. Blessings for a beautiful week!

MT. MORIAH

We are looking forward to being back in our church building very soon. We thank all who cleaned the sanctuary and helped repair the basement.

Bro. Breeden spoke on the "good fight of faith." Jesus gave His life for faith and we must follow in His steps to bring souls to Christ. Faith is indispensable in Christian life. Remove faith and you are not a Christian.

The fish fry/family night will be held June 27 at the home of Judy Hammond. Cowboy church will follow.

The "We Believe" group will be sponsoring a silent auction. The proceeds will go to the FIREhouse Ministry.

We extend sympathy to the family of Darrell Roberts. Our prayer list includes Gary and Alice Holmes, May Whitt, Myron Doan, Mary Doan and Barbara Singer.

Have a week filled with God's blessings!

As the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without deeds is dead." James 2:26

NEW ZION

Come join us for Worship and Christian fellowship. Sunday school begins at 10 a.m., morning worship is at 11 a.m., and evening worship starts at 6:30 p.m. Bible study and the CrossFire Crew meetings are on Wednesdays at 6 p.m.

Our sympathy to family of Daryl Roberts.

PINE GROVE

We were welcomed to church Sunday morning, June 8, with our youth playing the bells and singing. This is enlightenment to our service as several of our youth are from the Foster Care program which Alan and Melanie Redden are a part of. Thanks Alan and Melanie for your Christian effort and for your part of our morning worship.

Carol opened her service this morning with her call to worship from Proverbs 10 and continued her sermon from Hebrews while encouraging our home study from Hebrews.

Following the service, the congregation went to Gina's Cozy Café at Mt. Auburn where the Methodist Women treated the men to a meal in honor of Father's Day.

We have several upcoming events: From 11 a.m., to 1 p.m., June 20 Dream Kids will meet at the church with a pizza party at noon. At 9 a.m., June 23 members from the U.M.W. will meet at the home of Hilda Wright to make crafts. A hymn sing will be held at 6 p.m., June 28 at the church; interested participants please call Millie Blades at (859) 472-3163. On July 6 we will be celebrating Fourth of July with a special morning service followed by a pot luck meal.

New concerns on our prayer list are Sherry Collett, Pat Ray, Gary Holmes and Barb Singer. Let's keep our prayer chains active.

PLEASANT RIDGE

Happy Birthday Kyla Colemire! Happy Anniversary Mark and Tracy Gosney!

Mark your calendars. VBS Sunday July 13 thru Friday July 18.

Bro. Rick's message was from Matthew 24:3, 36-39. Peter, James, John and Andrew came to Jesus privately saying, tell us, when shall these things be and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world?

No one knows the date and hour when the end will be, not even the angels. Nor God's son. Only the Father knows.

Heaven and earth will pass away but My words remain forever.

Are you a wise and faithful servant of the Lord? Be prepared, for you don't know what day or hour the Lord is coming.

Sunday evening Bible study will be from various books of the Bible on Christian belief.

SHORT CREEK

Mark your calendars! Vacation Bible School will be from 6:30-8:45 p.m., June 23-27. Everyone from age three to high school is welcome. It will be located at the church, 6212 Hwy 22 W., Falmouth, KY 41040. For more information or any questions please call Shane at (859) 750-2061.

SOUTHSIDE

On June 8, the congregation opened the morning worship service with the hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy!" Bro. Clay Sullivan preached the sermon, "Sound Advice for Life" from James 1:2-21. Bro. Clay preached that all of us need advice at some time or another in life. The best advice, and it is more than advice, is from the word of God. If we all would believe God's word, and obey God's word, we would be a lot better off. The memory verse for the week comes from James 1:12, "Blessed is the man who perseveres under trial, because when he has stood the test, he will receive the crown of life that God has promised to those who love Him."

Come and worship with us this Sunday: 9 a.m., Sunday school and 10 a.m., worship service. Have a great day!

TRINITY

Praising God in song really sets the mood of a worship service. Thanks to the choir and Bro. Ron for sharing their talents in leading. The opening song, "you Are My All in All," is so touching to the heart.

The puppets took the stage and invited each child to VBS and told them how important it was to have Jesus in their lives.

Welcoming to the pulpit Bro. Ron Livingood. What a pleasure for him to also share special music with us.

Remember Vacation Bible School starts June 22. If you aren't a worker, you have an important job; prayer warriors are needed. Pray daily for teachers and workers as they reach out to share the good news of Jesus and that the week is a fun one for them and the children.

Thought: the cicadas are extremely noisy..wouldn't it be great if a Christian's chatter about our Lord reached as many people?

FIREhouse Ministries

June 8 was a wonderful meeting at FIREhouse, the Lord poured out His Spirit. Trial by Fire, our Christian rock band, led the people in worship to Jesus under the anointing of the Holy Spirit.

The word of God was preached with power and passion when the invitation was given, many came for prayer desiring God to fill them full of His presence and power. Two men and one woman gave their lives to Jesus and were saved! God is changing lives! How about your life, would you like to experience some change?

Would you like to trade your hopeless situation for a heart filled with hope? Or a peaceful heart for that restless heart that's so unsettled and lonely? Maybe you need to trade that sadness for abundant joy? Maybe you do not feel loved, then you need to be at FIREhouse at 6:30 p.m., Sunday, June 22 because the Lord is meeting us there and filling our hearts with hope, peace, joy and love. It is an amazing experience!

We invite all to come and witness God move in the lives of people. FIREhouse meets in the old firehouse in Butler. For more information call (859) 466-1657.

Fireflies provide nighttime beauty; help control some garden pests

Remember how much fun it was to chase fireflies when you were young? Once you caught a firefly, you would hold it in your hand to watch the flickering light for a few moments and then release it unharmed to fly away.

Interestingly, fireflies do more than generate entertaining childhood memories; they also help control some pests in the garden. On summer nights, glow worms (luminescent firefly larvae) often emerge from their underground homes to forage for food. A typical menu includes slugs, snails and caterpillars including cutworms. The larvae feed much like a spider by injecting a paralyzing toxin into their prey; then, injecting digestive juices to dissolve the prey and allow it to be more easily consumed. The adults probably feed on plant nectar to sustain their energy requirements.

There are several theories about why fireflies glow. One is that the flashing light is a homing beacon for the opposite sex. The male flies around flashing the signal to attract a female's attention. A female on the ground or on low-growing foliage will signal back when a male visits her vicinity. To avoid confusion, each firefly species has its own specific signal to attract a mate.

Another theory is that firefly larvae use their luminescence to warn a potential predator that they taste bad. Larvae contain defensive chemicals in their bodies. When disturbed, larvae also increase their glow's intensity and frequency.

Typical nighttime habitats for adults and larvae take place in rotting wood or other forest litter, or on the edges of water sources such as streams, ponds, marshes and ditches. The highest species diversity is in tropical Asia and Central and South America. Incidentally, some Asian species have tracheal gills that enable them to live under water where they feed on aquatic snails.

To attract fireflies to your property, reduce or eliminate lawn chemicals. Add low, over-hanging trees, tall grass and similar vegetation to give adult fireflies a cool place to rest during the day. Reduce extra lighting on your property because this light interferes with fireflies' luminous signals, making it harder for them to locate mates in the area. Fireflies also determine the time of night they'll flash by the intensity of ambient light. This is why you don't see many fireflies flashing on clear nights with a full moon.

Keep your most precious cargo safe

We all know that summertime in Kentucky is hot and humid, to say the least. But did you know that temperatures inside a vehicle can rise as much 19 degrees higher than the outside temperature within 10 minutes and can reach 45 to 50 degrees warmer in as little as an hour?

Temperatures like that can make the inside of a car lethal for anyone as it can raise body temperatures to dangerous levels. Body temperatures higher than 104 degrees can lead to heat stroke, and temperatures above 107 can be deadly.

Unfortunately, many of the deaths related to hot cars are children. In 2012, 32 U.S. children died from heat stroke because they were left in cars.

Children are more susceptible to heat-related injuries and deaths than adults because a child's body temperature can rise three to five times quicker than an adult. Children cannot regulate their body temperatures as efficiently as adults.

Through a partnership with the Louisville office of the National Weather Service and with funding by a Barnhart Fund for Excellence grant, personnel with the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension have developed several resources to help parents and caregivers keep our most precious cargo—children—safe. Here are some tips from their Beat the Heat: Check the Backseat campaign:

Never leave a child unattended in a vehicle. Not even for a minute. Don't overlook babies sleeping in a car.

Always lock your car, and ensure your children do not have access to keys or remote-entry devices.

Teach your children not to play in vehicles.

Avoid all distractions while driving, such as talking on a cell phone. Remember it's against the law in Kentucky to text while driving.

If you see a child left unattended in a vehicle, immediately call 911. For more information on Beat the Heat: Check the Backseat, contact the Pendleton County office of the UK Cooperative Extension Service.

Delicious pie recipe homemade by the Amish Cook

The Amish Cook

By Lovina Eicher

It is a rainy Wednesday in June as I write this. Son Kevin's class went to a state park in Indiana today for their school field trip, I am hoping the weather is nicer there. The temperature never went over 60 degrees so far today so it could be chilly for their nature walk through the woods.

Tonight, at 6:30 p.m., is the eight grade graduation at the school. Our fourth child, son Benjamin, will be amongst the rest of graduating from the eighth grade. This will conclude his school years. Nephew Jacob will also graduate from eighth grade. Also two of Timothy's (daughter Elizabeth's friend) nephews are with the group graduating. One of the teachers told me this week how sad she will be to see these four boys leaving the school. She said they were always a joy to have in class.

Time does not stand still for anyone. I seem to find it harder to see the children graduate now than it was when the first ones did. The occasion is a reminder that they are growing up and makes you hope we as parents have instilled enough love and faith in these young souls. When trials in life come their way may they choose God to be their guide. We all know life isn't always easy but it's how we react in situations: always let God show us the path even when it is hard to understand why.

Congratulations also goes to my cousin Verena's son, Luke Enos, as he graduates with his senior class from South Adams High School in Indiana. We received an invitation to his

Get ready for Cloverville at State Fair

Summer's here, and before you know it, the Kentucky State Fair and Cloverville will be in full swing. Cloverville is an annual attraction of every Kentucky State Fair. Located in the West Hall of the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville, Cloverville offers an opportunity for 4-H'ers to showcase their abilities and compete for statewide ribbons and awards. Regardless of whether they win at the state fair, the young people who have exhibits at Cloverville are already winners, as they won their county competition to advance to the state fair. Cloverville gives fellow Kentuckians good examples of 4-H projects and our young people's work ethic. Some of these projects took 4-H'ers weeks, months and sometimes an entire year to complete. Projects display skills in areas as diverse as science, the home and arts and crafts.

In addition to the projects, 4-H'ers will be on hand showcasing their skills in activities such as mannequin modeling and on-site competitions. Mannequin modeling gives participants the chance to model an outfit they have designed and constructed. On-site competitions include Lego wars and 4-H's version of "Cupcake Wars."

For more information about Cloverville events or to register for a competition, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service.

the rest of the garden. We had rain on Monday and again today so that should make things grow. I had to replant the lettuce as the first time I planted it didn't come up. Not sure why it didn't but heard others say they had to replant some things.

Try this zucchini pie when you get your zucchini this summer.

Ingredients:

- 4 sliced zucchini
- 1/4 cup onion, diced
- 1/3 cup butter
- 2 teaspoons parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon basil
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano
- 2 eggs beaten
- 2 cups grated Mozzarella cheese
- 1 cup Monterey Jack cheese
- 1 unbaked pie crust
- 2 tablespoons dry mustard

Directions:

Melt the butter in pan and cook the zucchini and onion over low heat for 10 minutes. Mix spices and add to zucchini mixture. Simmer for a few minutes. Add eggs and cheese to the mixture. Spread dry mustard into the unbaked pie crust. Pour zucchini mixture into the crust and bake at 375 for 20 minutes.

USDA announces changes to crop planting rules

USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) has announced fruit, vegetable and wild rice provisions that affect producers who intend to participate in certain programs authorized by the Agriculture Act of 2014.

"Similar to previous programs that we've administered, planting fruits, vegetables and wild rice on base acres on a farm can result in a payment reduction for program participants," John W. McCauley, State Executive Director for the Kentucky FSA.

Producers who intend to participate in the Agriculture Risk Coverage (ARC) of Price Loss Coverage (PLC) programs are subject to an acre-for-acre payment reduction when fruits and nuts, vegetables or wild rice are planted on the payment acres of a farm. Payment reductions do not apply to mung beans, dry peas, lentils or chickpeas. Planting fruits, vegetables or wild rice on acres that are not considered payment acres will not result in a payment reduction. Farms that are eligible to participate in ARC/PLC but are not enrolled for a particular year may plant unlimited fruit, vegetables and wild rice for that year but will not receive ARC/PLC payments for that year. Eligibility for succeeding years is not affected.

Planting and harvesting fruits, vegetables and wild rice on ARC/PLC acreage is subject to the acre-for-acre payment reduction when those crops are planted on either more than 15 percent of the base acres of a farm enrolled in ARC using the county coverage for PLC, or more than 35 percent of the base acres of a farm enrolled in ARC using the individual coverage.

Fruits, vegetables and wild rice that are planted in a double-cropping practice will not cause a payment reduction if the farms is in a double-cropping region as designated by the USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation.

For additional information on fruit, vegetable and wild rice rules, visit www.fsa.usda.gov or contact your local USDA Service Center.

Kentuckian eating habits pose a danger to health according to the recent Gallup survey

Dear Editor,

Kentucky made the list of the top 10 most obese states in the country. Again, Gallup just released the results of its annual nationwide health survey, which show that the more obese a state is, the more likely its residents are to suffer from high blood pressure, high cholesterol, diabetes, cancer and heart attacks. According to Gallup's findings, Kentuckians and people in other highly obese states eat the least amount of healthy fruits and vegetables.

The strong correlation between diet and disease isn't shocking. What is surprising is that Kentuckians aren't taking their health seriously and swapping out some of their meat- and dairy-filled meals with healthier plant-based ones.

Meat, eggs, and dairy products are loaded with cholesterol and saturated fat. But a balanced plant-based diet rich in beans, nuts, whole grains, fruits, and vegetables gives our bodies everything they need, without the fat, calories, and cholesterol.

I grew up on Kentucky comfort food, but after watching people I love suffer with cancer, diabetes, and heart disease, I went vegan to protect my health. I hope more Kentuckians will join me and check out the delicious recipes at www.PETA.org.

Michelle Kretzer

our next breakthrough just might be yours.

Kentucky is home to women who stand tall in the face of adversity. So when more than 3,000 of them were diagnosed with breast cancer last year, they fought hard to beat the odds -- while still juggling careers and families. Recently designated one of only 68 National Cancer Institute cancer centers nationwide, University of Kentucky Markey Cancer Center -- and now our patients at Harrison Memorial Hospital -- benefit from cancer research funding. Harrison Memorial Hospital's partnership in the UK Markey Cancer Center Affiliate Network means an elevated level of cancer research, technology and care available only to these select NCI-designated centers. Team that with our highly-skilled HMH surgeons who specialize in breast surgery, and we'll lead the way in putting the pieces of your life back together.

Nurture what's important in life, ladies. And let our better cancer care nurture you.
